

Dr. Curtis Chandler is a learning evangelist, educator, blogger, fun-expert, and Professor of Teacher Education at Brigham Young University-Idaho. He has worked with the Center for Teacher Quality, the Council of Chief State School Officers, the Mid-American Association for Computers in Education, and with school districts around the nation to engage students and deepen their learning. Curtis' blog, Class Apps, currently reaches hundreds of thousands of educators around the world. His innovative work and ideas have been featured in Rick Hess' book , The Cage-Busting Teacher, and in Kristin Magette's Embracing Social Media: A Practical Guide to Manage Risk and Leverage Opportunity. Curtis was named the Kansas State Teacher of the Year in 2011 and is also an inductee into the Mid-America Educator Hall of Fame. Above all, he enjoys spending time with his wife and favorite "students"—his four young sons.

Curtis on Twitter -- @CurtisChandler6

Curtis' Blog – Class Apps